

Silen, a leading producer of modular office pods and privacy solutions, is seeking a quality specialist to join its ambitious team.

Your main tasks will be:

- quality assurance in our production (correction of assembly instructions in cooperation with colleagues)
- daily communication with our customers and partners
- identifying the root causes of problems and initiating improvements
- systematic analysis and resolution of complaints and internal non-conformities
- developing the quality system and the digitizing documentation related to quality control
- participation in audits and quality development projects

We are waiting for you if:

- you have similar work experience in the field of production/manufacturing, and preferably a degree in a related field
- you have a very good technical understanding and excellent computer skills
- you are cooperative and capable of initiating good relations with internal and external partners
- you are fluent in Estonian and English, both spoken and written

We operate internationally in an exciting and constantly changing business. Silen products are sold in 60 countries, and the company grows year by year, offering unique opportunities for both professional and personal development. We have been awarded the title of "Exporter of the Year 2023"! Rest assured, your contribution will be duly rewarded.

Feel free to apply and inquire further until 27th of May.
We look forward to hearing from you!
